Dear Mr. Palmer:

25X1A9a

We appreciate your letter of March 10, 1965, to Mr. [REDACTED] on his talk to the Research and Engineering Council on computerized typesetting. We have received a number of interesting letters on [REDACTED] talk and are endeavoring to comply with various requests for information on it.

Bob Rossell of the Research and Engineering Council tells me that the verbatim transcript of the meeting is being rushed so that it should be available fairly soon. Since you will receive a copy of this transcript I believe [REDACTED] can use it to obtain whatever you wish from Mr. [REDACTED] remarks.

With respect to the slides used to illustrate [REDACTED] talk, we have not decided as yet as to just how we will be able to make copies of these available to those requesting them. The portion of his talk dealing with hyphenless justification will appear in complete detail in the April issue of PRINTING PRODUCTION Magazine. This article will be illustrated with some of the material used for the Research and Engineering Council talk. I believe that this material may accommodate you in this respect. If after you have obtained the transcript and the article in PRINTING PRODUCTION you find that this does not completely suit the purpose, you may wish to write me and I will see what can be done at that time to give you additional information.

Very truly yours,
